Dear Jean Carlo Fernandez,

To get started, my love is to care for people and through this career path, I can do so by caring for my patient's physical and emotional needs while attaining my Bachelor of Science in Psychology. My path has not always been a straight path. I started off first trying to attain a Bachelor of Science in Nursing but due to unfortunate circumstances, I was left to make a life changing decision that would entail leaving SWAU and the country. After a lot of counseling, pro and con lists, and talking to family, friends, and advisors I was able to decide in remaining at SWAU and pursuing a Bachelor of Science in Psychology.

My skills and qualifications consist of always wanting to be helpful in any way that I can. As mentioned, I am creative, empathetic, have organizing skills, I am loyal, agreeable and honest, as well as determined. I am a Seventh Day Adventist that loves helping at church and serving God while also being involved in Master guides and Pathfinders.

As a person who has not had an easy and straight paved path, my challenge is to pursue what I love and enjoy while trying to make the world a little better through service for others. Sharing the Word of God and becoming the best version of myself that I can possibly become with the help of God. I hope to one day help influence humanity little by little through counseling and paving a path to a healthier environment and mindset for kids, teenagers, and adults.

Thank you,
Camilla McCulloch
